An Eastern paper expresses surprise because the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army has given out that the organization is opposed to special pension bills. The organization has several times declared against such legislation.

There is no cause to believe that the proposed change in the office of the commissioner of pensions will materially affect the administration of the office, since claims are adjudicated in accordance with rules that have been in force for years.

The New York Evening Post has been looking over the country to find a man who is really available as a Democratic candidate for President. It even rejects Mr. Olney, of Massachusetts, because he will be seventy in 1904. A paper, commenting on the vain search of the Post, says that the party may have to choose between Cleveland and Bryan.

Editor Morss's declaration in favor of Chief Justice Fuller or Justice Harlan as the Democratic candidate for President In 1904 shows at once the poverty of the the seizure of the Chilean vessel Itata in wealth, which receives government protecparty in great men and its desperation. Justice Harlan is a lifelong Republican and Chief Justice Fuller's supposed availability rests solely on his recent dissenting opinion in the Porto Rican case, which, by the way, was more conspicuous for verbosity than for legal argument.

A very large part of the serious affrays and homicides occurring in this city are committed in saloons. There were two on Tuesday, both of which will probably result fatally. The arrest and trial of the men charged with committing such ofcost the county a good round thing which might make these offenses less frequent would be to revoke the license of saloons in which brutal fights occur. Such a provision faithfully enforced would drive out of the business fifty or one hundred of the worst places in the city. The fatal affray of the saloon

The Denver judge who has cited three of that city to answer in his court to the charge of contempt may have interesting question of privilege. The language used by the preachers, naming the judge and charging him specifically with judicial corruption, would be held libelous as against a newspaper, and the question is whether the pulpit has higher | with the arms and munitions she took on privileges in this regard than the press. As a general rule preachers are dignified and guarded in their treatment of public questions, but there are sensational preachers as well as yellow newspapers, and some of the Denver brethren seem to have been dangerously personal in their denunciations of the judge. The clearing-house system that has provailed in this city for some time past has been defective in that it has not embraced all of the banks and banking institutions of the city, and its reports have therefore been misleading to the public and injurious to the city. They are misleading because they represent only a part of the banking business of the city and are therefore uscless for statistical purposes, and they are injurious because they depreciate the commercial activity and business of the city, Clearing-house reports are regarded in business circles as one of the most accurate government of Chile. The commission held financial center has been very inadequately represented by its clearing-house reports, and it will not be placed right before the public until every bank and trust company in the city has become a member of the clearing house. For this reason as well as for others pertaining more directly to the business of the banks themselves it is earnestly to be hoped that the movement for the reorganization of the clearing house will succeed.

Foreign postage is usually double these ating certain offices and providing a form ating certain offices and providing a form of government, provided that merchandise coming into the United States from Porto Rico and coming into Porto Rico from the United States should pay 15 per cent. of the regular Dingley tariff duties on like merchandise imported from foreign countries. The law provided that "Whenever the Legislative Assembly of Porto Rico shall put into operation a system of local taxation to pay the expenses of its government all tariff duties on merchandise passing between the two countries shall cease, and all articles shall be entered at the several ports free of duty, and in no event shall any duties be collected after March 1, 1902." This provision limited the existence of tariff duties between Porto Rico and the United States to March 1, 1902, and placed it in the power of the Porto Rican Legislature to end them sooner by providing a system of local revenue adequate for the expenses of the insular government. This has been done. The Legislature of Porto Rico is peculiarly constituted. The upper branch, called the Executive Council, consists of the secretary, attorney general, treasurer, auditor, commissioner of the interior, commissioner of education and five native Porto Ricans, all of whom are appointed by the President. The lower branch is composed of thirty-five members elected by the people. This body cannot impose taxes, license fees, franchise fees, etc. It is by this means that a system of insular taxation has been provided which, after careful examination, Governor Allen says will produce sufficient revenues for the needs of the government, the support of public schools, the prosecution of public improvements, etc. Therefore, he has decided to convene the Legislature in extra session on the 4th of July for the sole purpose of passing a resolution declaratory of the facts and proclaiming absolute free trade between the island and the United States. That date, therefore, will witness John D. A Banquet of the Butler Alumni at the Denison-St. John's Boys' School.

This is commencement season at Butler College and the students are very active. Yesterday morning the professors found a half-ton of hay in the secretary's office when they arrived at the college building. In the chapel the carpet had been taken up and some of the benches turned over. The college residence had an extremely peculiar odor hovering in its halls, due to a chemical from the laboratory that had been sprinkled there. The serious part of the season began yesterday, when the degree of bachelor of arts was conferred on nine students, as follows: Martin Conrad Amos, Cumberland; St. Louis to become general manager of the Grace Jane Clifford, Indianapolis; May Cunningham, Finncastle; Bertha May Little, Irvington; Virginia McComb, Indianapolis; Carl Williamson McGaughey, Irvington; Marie Evangeline Martin, Clayton; Ernest Lynn Talbert, Indianapolis; Pierre Van Sickle, Fenton.

The commencement exercises will be held in the college chapel this morning. Shakspeare's "Julius Caesar."

The opening number given by the Rialto Orchestra was very pleasing. The orchestra is composed of Masters William Parkinson, John A. O'Donnell, George Deery and Francis J. O'Leary with mandolins; Bert Deery, Robert E. Kelleher and Thomas J. Lenihan, jr., violinists; Charles O'Donnell and Leo Deery with triangles and Miss Bertha Meredith as accompanist. About forty of the smaller boys who were arranged artiscally about the stage sang "Distant Chimes." The tots of the school next followed with "Our Lady's Anthem." a religious hymn,

"Playing Doctor," a farce, brought forth a great amount of laughter. "Jesus, Savior of My Soul," in pantomime, was rather unique. About twenty of the pupils dressed in white gowns, trimmed in tinsel, and each wearing a crown gave a picture of a child at prayer, while a quartet hidden behind the scenes sang a hymn. Robert E. Kelleher in a character sketch, "A Farm Scene, evoked considerable applause with his rendition of a rural song. A company of zouaves composed of the school boys under command of Capt. N. O'Connor, did themselves credit with their maneuvers. Master Thomas Lenihan, jr., eleven years old, was quite a surprise with his violin playing. He gave "Souvenir des Alpes," for an opening number and his work with the instrument was such as to excite much favorable comment. The quarrel scene from "Julius Caesar" was a piece of acting in which Thomas Lenihan as Brutus acquitted himself well. William P. Daugherty made a good Cassius. The part of Lucius was taken by John A. O'Donnell; Pindarus, servant to Cassius. by Francis J. Duffey; Claudius and Varro. two Roman soldiers, by Walter Schuele and Francis J. O'Leary, respectively. The guards and other officers of the Roman court were taken by smaller boys of the school. The performance was concluded with a selection by the Rialto Orchestra. The awarding of prizes and gold medals

WASHINGTON, June 19.-United States Consul Gummere arrived in Washington today and called at the State Department, where he had long interviews with Secretary Hay and Assistant Secretary Gridler respecting the conditions in Morocco and especially the status of the unsettled American claims against the government of that country. The consul reported that the Sultan of Morocco never made the projected visit to Fez, which was assigned as a reason for the refusal of the court to give numbers, zouave drilling and a scene from audience to the consul in order that he might press these American claims. On the contrary the Sultan has been in Morocco

City continually for the last several years. NATIONAL CAPITAL NOTES.
